The Challenges of Income Investing

First Eagle's Approach to Building Income

An income stream that is meaningful and sustainable

Consistent with preserving and growing the capital base in real terms over time

Fund Overview

Investment Objective

Seeks current income generation and long-term growth of capital

Investment Approach

Bottom-up fundamental analysis of income-producing securities

Investment Universe

Principally dividend-paying equities, corporate debt instruments (including bonds and loans), and sovereign bonds, along with various short-term debt securities. Flexibility to consider other income-oriented securities, such as REITs, MLPs, and Income Trusts, as well as other investments

Income Distributions

Monthly

Yield

Seeking a level of income distribution that is consistent with preserving and growing the capital base in real terms over time.

“Margin of Safety” Remains Core to our Approach

Securities are considered because they generate income and are purchased because we believe they offer an appropriate “margin of safety”

- Our investment philosophy enables both income generation and long-term growth of capital objectives
- Avoid the permanent impairment of capital by investing only where we believe an adequate buffer to intrinsic value is present
- Yield is not a valuation metric
 - Applies equally to equity and credit investments

The Global Value Team defines “margin of safety” as the difference between a company’s purchase price and our estimate of its intrinsic value.

Research:

Nineteen equity and credit analysts support the First Eagle Global Income Builder Fund. With an average of 19 years experience, these analysts seek investment opportunities across market capitalizations, industries, geographic regions, and asset types.

Investment Process

Investment Process

Step 1:

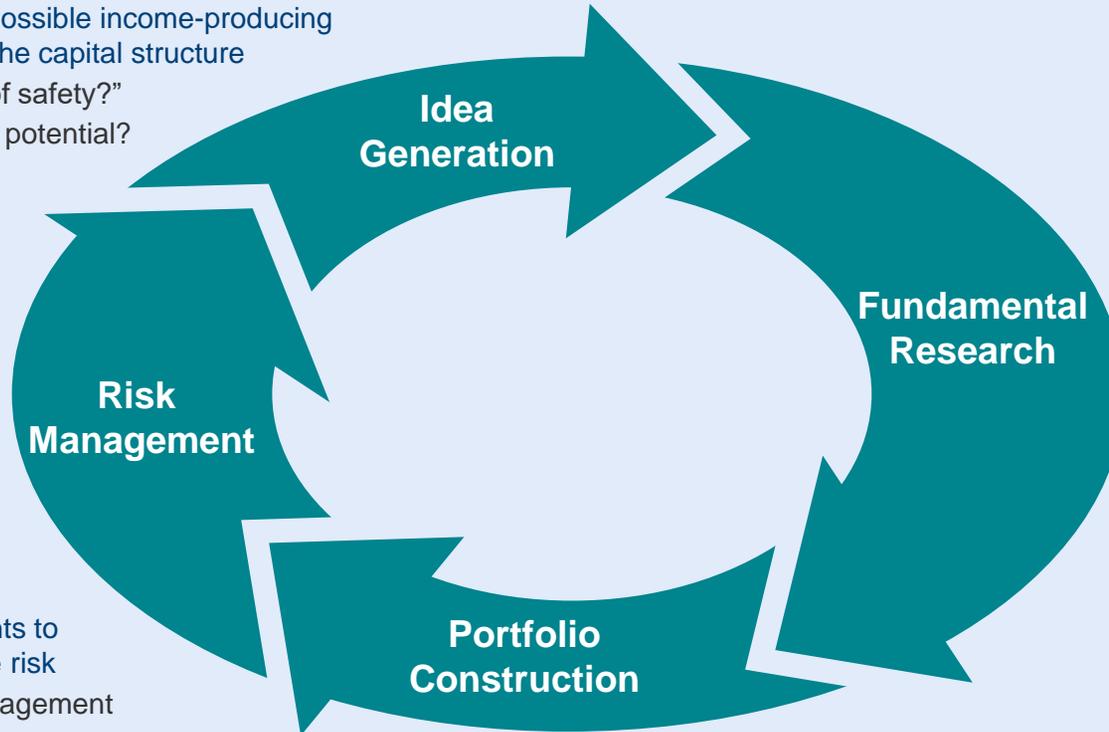

Seek broad array of possible income-producing opportunities across the capital structure

- Is there a “margin of safety?”
- What is the income potential?

Step 2:

Analyze securities for margin of safety and income sustainability

- Industry analysis
- Company analysis
- Security selection
- Identification of what we seek to avoid

Step 4:

Monitor investments to manage downside risk

- Continuous engagement with companies
- Continuous investment research

Step 3:

Bottom-up portfolio construction

- Equity: Generate income and seek long-term growth of capital
- Credit: Generate income
- Cash and sovereign debt: Deferred purchasing power
- Gold: Potential hedge

The Global Value Team defines “margin of safety” as the difference between a company’s purchase price and our estimate of its intrinsic value.

Step 1: Idea Generation

Drawing upon First Eagle’s global expertise across the capital structure

Equity Idea Generation

- Companies misunderstood or temporarily disappointing investors
- Industries or geographies out of favor
- Underappreciated franchise businesses

Credit Idea Generation

- Stable and sufficient cash flows
- Management with demonstrable positive track record
- Asset value and/or security

“Margin of safety” potential

Discount to our sense of intrinsic value?
Resilient balance sheet and business model?
Temporarily or permanently challenged?

Income potential

Financial capacity and management commitment to distributions and debt obligations?

Portfolio of 100 – 180 securities*

*This is not a stated guideline and the number of positions may vary.

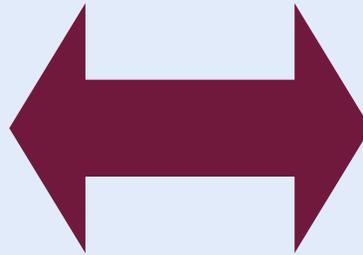

The Global Value Team defines “margin of safety” as the difference between a company’s purchase price and our estimate of its intrinsic value.

Step 2: Fundamental Research

Determining Intrinsic Value

Equity Emphasis

What would an informed buyer pay in cash for the underlying enterprise?

Credit Emphasis

Does the enterprise possess the ability and willingness to successfully pay coupons and repay or refinance principal?

Deconstruct the financials

Understand the business

Assess the valuation

Security selection

Step 3: Portfolio Construction from the Bottom Up

A flexible, responsive and global approach

Equity

Generate income and seek long-term growth of capital

- Focus on dividend-paying equities

Credit

Generate income

- Corporate bonds and loans

Cash/ Sovereign Debt

Deferred purchasing power

- Flexibility regarding duration and currency

Gold-Related Securities

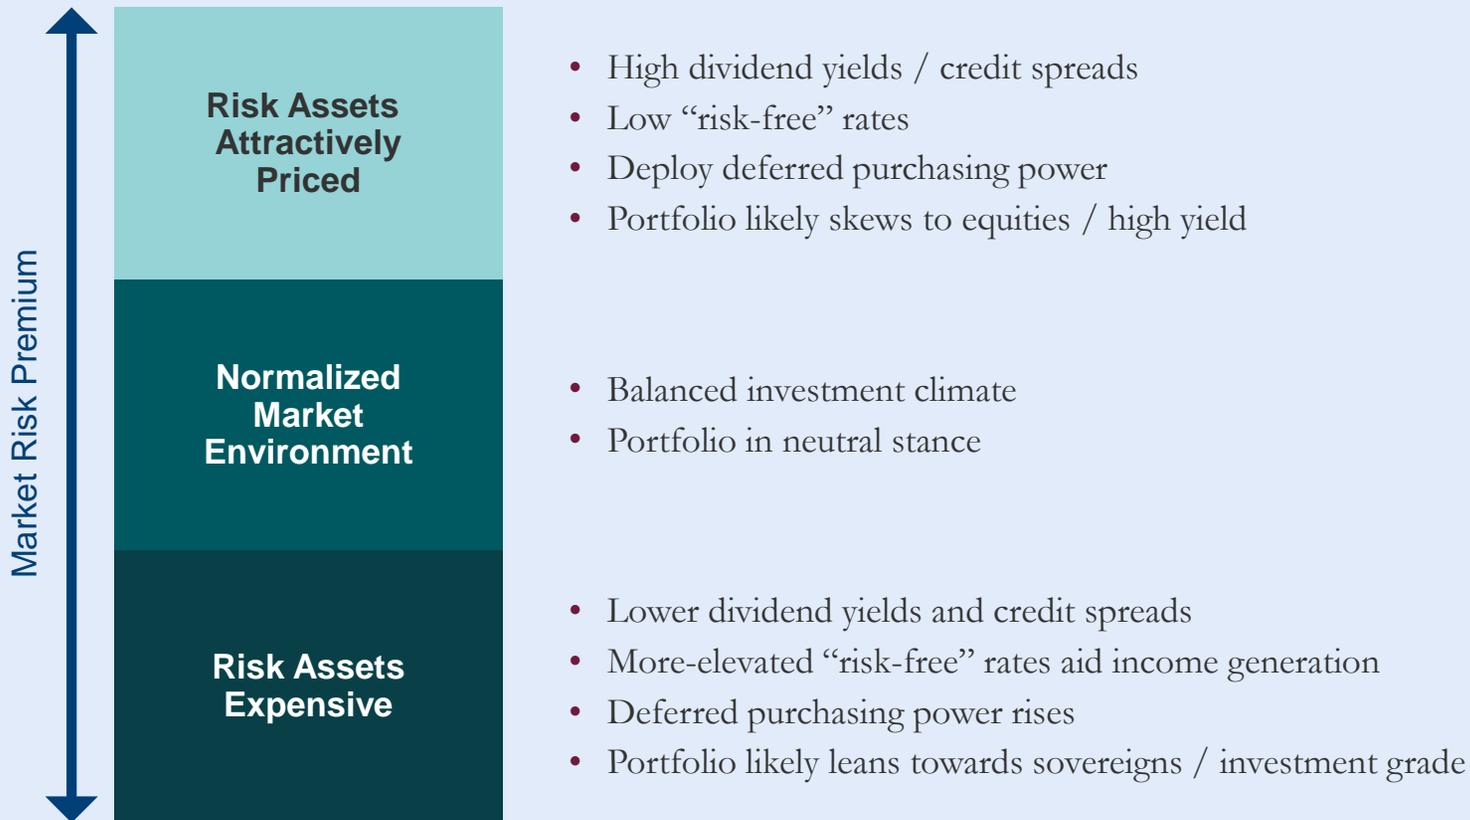

Potential hedge

- Focus on dividend paying miners

Investment in gold and gold related investments present certain risks, and returns on gold related investments have traditionally been more volatile than investments in broader equity or debt markets. Physical gold does not produce income.

Seeking Income and “Margin of Safety” Across Market Environments

Broader market conditions influence the types of investments that meet our “margin of safety” requirements

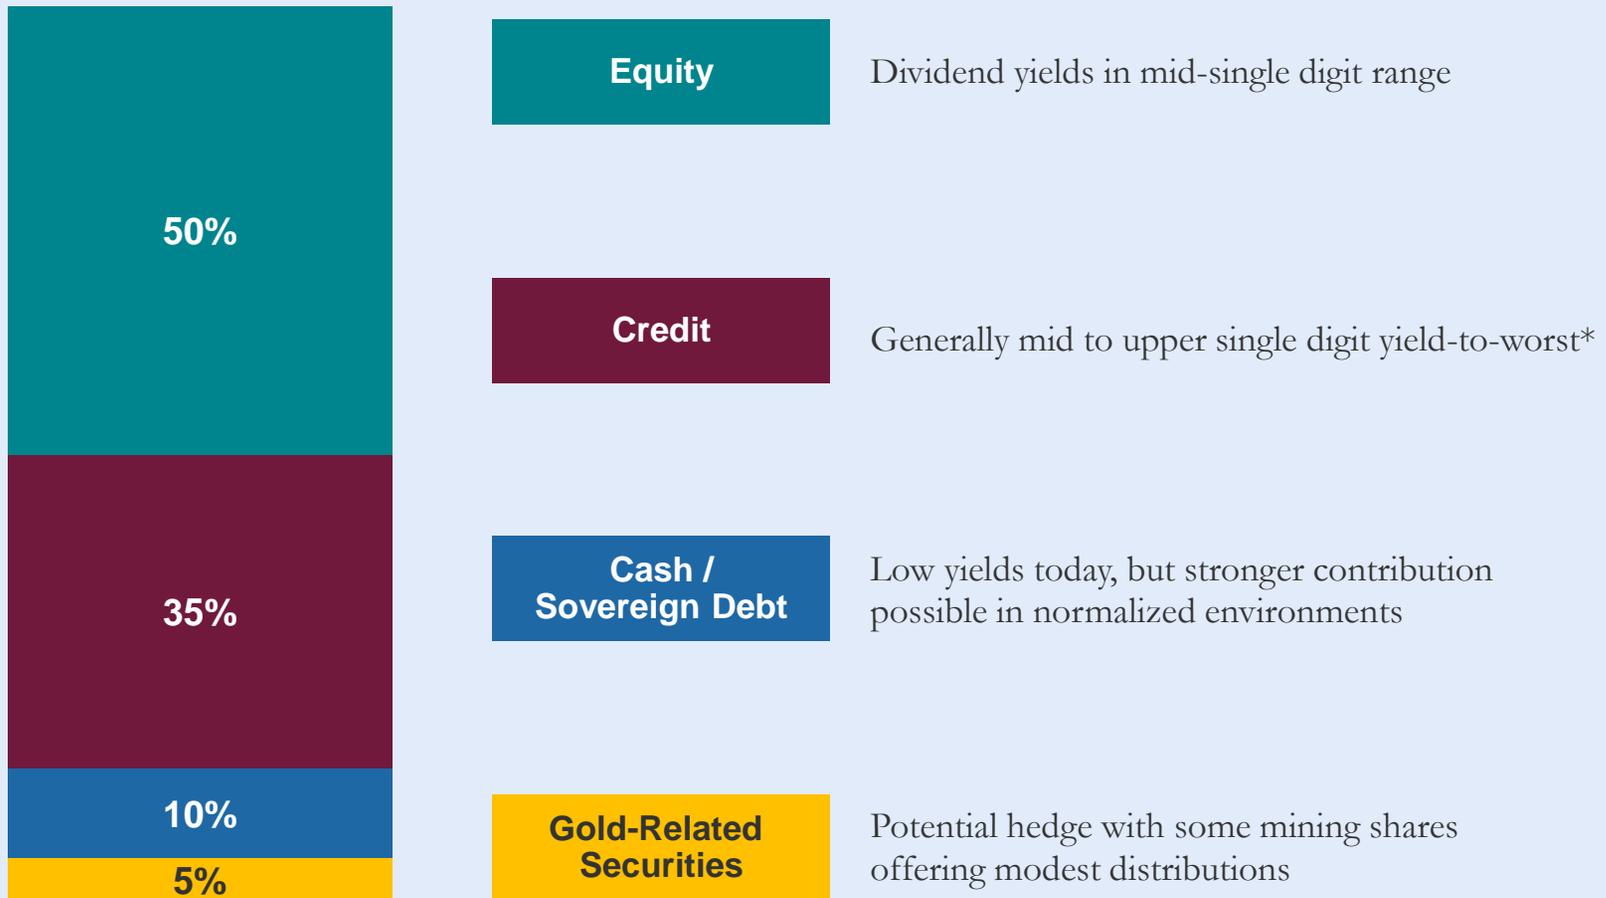

All investments involve the risk of loss of principal.

The Global Value Team defines “margin of safety” as the difference between a company’s purchase price and our estimate of its intrinsic value.

Investment Process

Seeking Income in a “Normalized” Environment

Portfolio is actively managed and subject to change. Current and future portfolio holdings are subject to risk, and may vary, possibly significantly, from above.

*The Fund may invest in high-yield below investment grade securities.

Step 4: Risk Management and Portfolio Monitoring

We define risk as the potential for permanent impairment of capital

Security-Level Risk Management

- Risk management begins at the security level
- Limit initial position sizing, with the flexibility to exploit additional security price weakness
- Watch for industry or competitive developments that alter risk profile
- Continuous reassessment of intrinsic value and price/value relationship

Portfolio-Level Risk Management

- Increase cash and sovereigns when attractively valued equities or credits are scarce
- Own gold as a potential hedge
- Seek to maintain an adequately diversified portfolio
- Avoid clusters of risk, with the flexibility to remain benchmark-agnostic

Investment in gold and gold related investments present certain risks, and returns on gold related investments have traditionally been more volatile than investments in broader equity or debt markets.

Appendix

Disclosures

There are risks associated with investing in securities of foreign countries, such as erratic market conditions, economic and political instability and fluctuations in currency exchange rates. These risks may be more pronounced with respect to investments in emerging markets.

Funds that invest in bonds are subject to interest-rate risk and can lose principal value when interest rates rise. Bonds are also subject to credit risk, in which the bond issuer may fail to pay interest and principal in a timely manner, or that negative perception of the issuer's ability to make such payments may cause the price of that bond to decline.

The Fund invests in high yield securities (commonly known as "junk bonds") which are generally considered speculative because they may be subject to greater levels of interest rate, credit (including issuer default) and liquidity risk than investment grade securities and may be subject to greater volatility. High yield securities are rated lower than investment-grade securities because there is a greater possibility that the issuer may be unable to make interest and principal payments on those securities.

Bank loans are often less liquid than other types of debt instruments. There is no assurance that the liquidation of any collateral from a secured bank loan would satisfy the borrower's obligation, or that such collateral could be liquidated.

Investment in gold and gold related investments present certain risks, and returns on gold related investments have traditionally been more volatile than investments in broader equity or debt markets. Physical gold does not produce income.

The Fund may also invest in small and medium-sized companies, derivatives, illiquid investments and real estate, which have additional risks.

Income generation and dividends are not guaranteed. If dividend paying stocks in the fund's portfolio stop paying or reduce dividends, the fund's ability to generate income will be adversely affected.

The principal risk of investing in value stocks is that the price of the security may not approach its anticipated value or may decline in value.

All investments involve the risk of loss.

The MSCI World Index is a widely followed, unmanaged group of stocks from 23 developed market countries and is not available for purchase. The index provides total returns in U.S. dollars with net dividends reinvested. One cannot invest directly in an index.
